

What is ecomom?

ecomom provides moms with easy access to the world's best, healthiest products. eco = healthy mom = family. Everything on our site is ecomom trusted. Our team of experts researches products, so you don't have to.

What does "It's All Good" mean

It's always been important to ecomom founders, Jody Sherman & Emily Blakeney, that we do good as a company. It's only "all good" when everyone benefits. When you shop with ecomom; you directly take care of someone in need. Every purchase will feed a hungry child. And "its all good" really is "good for all".

How do we find new products?

We find products because our team is constantly on the lookout for healthy, safe and affordable products that families need. In addition, we are constantly talking to moms and hearing what they're excited about. When a mom reaches out to us with a product that helps their family, we look into it and see if it meets our criteria.

What does ecomom trusted mean?

In order for a product to be "ecomom trusted" our team of experts first asks, "is this product healthy and safe?" and then "is this product useful and cost-effective?" Our Chief Mom Officer is responsible for maintaining and adhering to these criteria when evaluating a product as well as the company with whom we are working. We also have a trusted network of support to help us in making certain that we are always living up to our promise. Our network includes respected pediatricians such as Dr. Alan Greene, scientists, non-profit organizations such as Healthy Child Healthy World, as well as a customer advisory panel.

Who are our trusted partners?

We love all of our partners. Some of favorites include: Plum Organics, gdiapers, testo, Melissa & Doug, Seventh Generation, Skip Hop, Plan Toys, Ergo, Orbit, Pangea, Rockin' Green, Kids Konserve, CleanWell, Under the Nile, Episencial, Green Toys

Where can I get more information about ecomom?

Please contact us at jody@ecomom.com or visit us at facebook.com/ecomom